GOVERNOR DUMMER ACADEMY - SOUTH BYFIELD - MASSACHUSETTS

OUR COVER

The scale model of our new chapel (see page 5 col. 1) aroused great interest among the parents, even more among the boys. Jim McGuire is not, however, trying to be the first one in the new chapel; he is merely peering through the windows at the arrangement of pews, choir loft, and altar.

From the Headmaster

To The Alumni:

On September 19, 216 boarders and 26 day students descended upon the campus to begin the 200th year in the history of Governor Dummer Academy. This is the largest and, we think, one of the finest groups of young men ever to grace our campus. To them falls the distinction and the challenge of attending the Academy in this significant year.

As they moved through the early days of the fall term, they faced larger responsibilities and found new opportunities. Elsewhere in this issue Mr. Stone has outlined many of the new opportunities, both academic and extracurricular, which are open to them. During the past two years, eleven courses have been added to the curriculum and four major activities have appeared for the first time on the Governor Dummer scene. All of these additions are part of the long-range objectives of the Program of Advance. They represent the early stages of our effort to make life at Governor Dummer ever more stimulating, ever richer, for these students who come to us from many states and many lands. However, it is important to note here that this program does not envisage further growth in the size of the school nor the stiffening of requirements far beyond the abilities of all but a select few. Through increased special sectioning in most courses, we have been able to meet the needs of the most able while avoiding overwhelming obstacles for those with more modest capabilities.

While offering new opportunities, we have also enlarged the area of student responsibility, particularly for juniors and seniors. The most significant change has been the replacing of the Senior Council by a system in which all seniors perform important duties, including the proctoring of study halls, library, and dormitories; supervising the movies and school store; serving as head waiters in the dining hall and as chapel deacons; conducting tours for the admissions office; and greeting visiting teams. The classes of 1962 and 1963 have done a fine job in getting this system off to a good start.

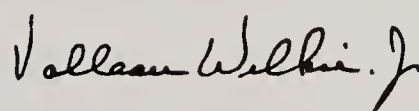

In addition to the new courses and activities, several other parts of the Program of Advance have gotten under way. During the past two years, our median faculty salary has increased by approximately 30%. Faculty and student living accommodations have been improved, and our facilities have been expanded by the addition of the hockey rink, the Mansion House wing, and the necessary but unglamorous sewage plant. Ground will be broken for the chapel in early spring and it is hoped that the student center and classroom building will follow soon thereafter.

The remaining part of the program will be the celebration to be held on Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25. On Friday we will focus on secondary schools in general, primarily through a panel of college and school leaders. The program on Saturday will center around our key speaker and will be more specifically concerned with our own 200th birthday. You will be learning more about the specific plans shortly after the first of the year. It is our hope that this major celebration can be of real service, not only to Governor Dummer but also to secondary education across the land.

At this significant moment in the long history of the Academy, I experience a mixture of emotions. On the one hand, I feel great pride in my association with this strong institution and the many fine people — students, faculty, alumni, parents, and friends — who are its life blood. I have the greatest of confidence in its future. On the other hand, I am awed by the great responsibility placed upon us all by the challenge of this 200th year in the history of the Academy and by the demands made upon us, and all education, in these crucial times in the history of mankind.

When Lieutenant Governor William Dummer wrote his will which made possible the founding of this school, he met a major need through the inauguration of a significant educational movement in this country. At no time since his death has the development of our young talent been more important. He played his role well, as have the many leaders of the school over the years. The Bicentennial gives to us the moment to pause, reflect, and act with foresight to meet the educational needs of another critical era.

Chapel Plans Completed

A feature of Parents' Day was a beautiful scale model of Governor Dummer's proposed chapel on display in the reading room at the Frost Building. Mr. Robert Harding of the architect's office had constructed the model and obviously had spent many hours of meticulous effort in the process.

Clapboards, shingles, window panes were all scrupulously shown. By peeking through the windows one could even see the pews, the turkey red carpet between them, the chandeliers hung above them. Inside and out, the model was complete, even to the tiny little red schoolhouse which may constitute the weathervane on top of the steeple.

Plans for the chapel itself were drawn by Mr. Walter S. Brodie of Kilham, Hopkins, Greeley & Brodie of Boston, long the school architects. Working with him through the long months of planning were the Headmaster and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Moseley, Jr. of New York. Mr. Moseley is a member of the Board of Trustees and has been active in raising funds for this portion of the Program of Advance. Mrs. Moseley is an architect in her own right and has been particularly helpful.

Detailed drawings and specifications are now being prepared. Bids will be invited and the contract awarded early in the new year, and construction will be started as soon as the frost is out of the ground next spring.

By September 1963 it is confidently expected that Governor Dummer's beautiful new chapel will crown the hill where the flagpole now stands.

Four New Masters

Join Faculty

There are four new full-time members of the faculty this year. Arthur H. Adams teaches modern languages. He is a graduate of the University of Iowa '51, earned his Master's degree at Northwestern University, and has also studied at the University of Vienna and at Johns Hopkins. His previous teaching experience has been at the college level. He comes to Governor Dummer from the University of Virginia and is living on Perkins 3.

John F. Henry is a graduate of Notre Dame '48 and of the Breadloaf School of English at Middlebury. Previous teaching experience has been at the Howe Military School, and, more recently, at Framingham High School. At Governor Dummer he teaches English and acts as corridor master on Ingham 2.

Christopher B. Martin teaches English and serves as corridor master on Ingham 1. He comes to Governor Dummer directly from Harvard where he received his A.B. in June.

William T. King teaches Mathematics and assists Mr. Murphy in the athletic department. He comes to Governor Dummer from St. George's School in Newport, R. I., and he and Mrs. King are living in nearby Rowley.

Art Instructor Added

Mr. Wilkie has made the broadening of our curricular and extracurricular offerings a major part of his program. New courses, cultural trips to Boston theaters and concerts, the community-school orchestra have been parts of that program.

This year, as a further step in that direction, Mr. Richard M. Gibney has become a part-time member of the faculty and is teaching a course in the history of art as well as running a studio art club.

Mr. Gibney has been curator of the Historical Society museum in Newburyport, a successful book illustrator and muralist. During the war he was a combat artist with the Marines in the South Pacific and subsequently was an art supervisor in New York state public schools. Since moving to Newburyport he has been associated with the Vose Gallery in Boston and has executed a number of portrait commissions.

Mr. Gibney's class in the history of art is a half-unit elective open to juniors and seniors. His studio art group meets during the activity period on Saturday morning.

Curriculum Enrichment

Further steps toward a stronger and more enriched curriculum were taken at the Academy this fall. In the Mathematics Department a new Math 5 course is being taught by Mr. Sargent to prepare boys for the Advanced Placement Examination in college freshman calculus. The Science Department is offering Science 4, a continuation of the two-year integrated program in Chemistry and Physics which was started last year. The German curriculum has been extended to include a third-year course.

Three new minor courses are being offered as electives to juniors and seniors. A course in International Relations, taught by Mr. Sperry and Mr. Eames of the History Department, has attracted twenty-four boys this fall. The chaplain, Mr. Harris, is conducting a small class in Religion and Contemporary Society, and Mr. Gibney's new course in History of Art is supplemented by a studio class each Saturday morning.

In the field of music the school has organized three ensemble groups this year, one for strings, one for brass, and one for woodwinds. Mrs. Robert Pearson is directing the string players, and Mr. Felix Viscuglia is in charge of the other group. Six boys are studying piano with Mrs. Edith True Marshall, and nine boys are taking guitar lessons from Mr. Roland Moore. The sixty-voice Glee Club is continuing under Mr. Sager's direction, and a new Chapel Choir has been organized with Mr. Stone serving as choirmaster and organist.

Good Luck, Mr. Marr

Most J.V. athletes, and most varsity ones also, will be sorry to hear that Jack Marr left us last June to go to the Woodberry Forest School in Virginia. There he is head of the German department, head coach of varsity baseball, backfield coach of varsity football, and assistant coach of varsity wrestling. We all regret his decision, but we wish Mr. Marr and his Woodberry Forest teams the best of luck.

Also leaving us in June were Mr. Richard Clancy, Mr. Peter Parsons and Mr. David McLean, all of whom joined us the previous September, and Mr. Duane Paluska.

To mitigate our sorrow at the departure of these colleagues, we are glad to announce the return to our midst of Ash Eames and Keith McDuffie. Ash had spent the past year at B.U. and received a Master's Degree in History in June. Mr. McDuffie had been teaching at the Choate School but found separation from South Byfield intolerable.

Ash is back in his old haunts in Moody House. Mr. McDuffie occupies Mr. Ohrn's old quarters in Phillips. But don't be alarmed! Mr. Ohrn has not left us; after twenty-one years in the dormitories he has fled into detached quarters (still bachelor) in the small cottage at Fatherland Farm where Mr. Navins and family were domiciled during construction of their house on Faculty Lane.

Addresses Wanted

New ones that is! If you are about to move to Hong Kong, Chad, or Timbuctu, please send us your new address.

Bye, Bye, Red Wing

The Red Wing, later re-named the Tobias Lear, you'll remember, is the old handtub, beloved toy of Mr. Eames, which used to be rolled out on the campus at Commencement, along with the more pretentious but newer Pepperell and the Phillips Andover.

Some of you may also remember that the Red Wing came to South Byfield with a much more serious purpose. In the early days of World War II Civilian Defense was taken much more seriously than it is today. Auxiliary police (your Editor was one) and fire wardens patrolled the darkened streets. First aid teams were formed and drilled; auxiliary fire companies stood by in every community.

The Red Wing was acquired from nearby Salisbury, painted and reconditioned to be the mainstay of the Governor Dummer fire company. Mr. Eames naturally was fire chief; Mr. Sager was fire marshal.

The first full-dress rehearsal was held one bitter cold November afternoon. Parsons was the site of the imagined blaze. The Red Wing was wheeled smartly into place; Mr. Sager's squad manned the brakes; and he took up the count. Faster and faster the beat; higher and higher he pointed the nozzle. At one point it seemed the stream might soar triumphantly over the ridge of the (supposedly) flaming schoolhouse.

And then whoosh, — the second-hand hose burst, and there stood the mighty Sager completely drenched with freezing water.

Through the awed silence which ensued came a shrill cry from Commons porch where Mr. Sager's family had gathered to watch. "Do it again, Daddy," trilled delighted daughter Jeanie (now Mrs. Peter Sutton).

New hose was purchased and other drills, fortunately, were more successful. After the war Mr. Eames acquired the Pepper- ell, and Morse Field was the site of some amusing contests. Then came the Phillips Academy tub and hose cart until one end of the big barn was taken over to house the Headmaster's hobby (sometimes called the Headmaster's folly).

But storage space becomes every year more valuable, and every year brings more demand that the tubs be made available for use in the popular and colorful musters held on so many village greens. So the Red Wing has gone to Medford, the Phillips Academy tub to Andover, and the Pepperell to South Weymouth.

Best wishes to them all.

Haircuts Tonight

Beginning last February, boys who had signed up in response to this familiar announcement repaired during the evening, not to the remembered dungeon underneath the Noyes Library, but to an elegant new emporium in what once was the Camera Club darkroom in Ingham.

New fluorescent lighting, gleaming barber chairs straight from the Ritz, spotless white walls and maroon floor made the first arrivals wonder if they had somehow found their way into a city shop. But the whirring clippers and the rapid succession of clients soon reassured them.

Subscribe To The Governor

The new student publication known as The Governor is now in its fourth year. Starting as a four-page journal appearing six times a year, it has grown into a six, sometimes eight-page newspaper which will put out ten issues in 1962-63.

Pictures and sports coverage are especially noteworthy, but all aspects of school life are fully and colorfully reported.

We are asked to announce that subscriptions are available at $2.50 per year and that alumni support would be particularly welcome. Send checks to The Governor, Governor Dummer Academy, South Byfield, Mass.

Parents' Day 1962

This was one of our better Parents' Days. On Friday night we had been promised "cold and cloudy with occasional showers." Actually Saturday was a near perfect football day, — clear, brisk but not too cold, and nary a shower.

Furthermore, we won the varsity football game 16-8, an especially satisfying victory since it was the first over Groton in seven years.

The day's activities began with coffee in the Frost Building at 10 o'clock. A surprising number of parents were on hand at that hour, and from then until noon the crowd grew and grew. To make it easy for parents to meet their sons' teachers, stations in the various labs and classrooms had been assigned individual masters, and parents quite obviously approved of the arrangement.

At 11 o'clock in the visual aids room Mr. Stone met with parents of seniors to discuss college admission plans, procedures, and problems.

Luncheon this year was served in the Alumni Gym at noon. Over five hundred places were set and parents and guests were served at four buffet stations, — an arrangement which greatly expedited service and permitted those who wished to be on hand for the varsity and J.V. soccer games and the Pony football game at 1:00.

During the football game the ladies of the Governor Dummer Allies did a land-office business at a snack bar set up behind the bleachers. Proceeds go to a scholarship fund, — perhaps that's why many boys (and some parents) went through the line repeatedly.

After the game there were receptions in the Frost Building and in the Cobb Room and the dining room. Thereafter boys were free to go out to dinner with their parents, and a vast majority did so. For the score or so who did not, a movie trip was arranged.

PARENTS' DAY CONFERENCE

Mr. McDuffie's conference with Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Potter '37 was one of hundreds on October 27.

Nearly four hundred guests, mostly parents, were on hand for the festivities. Another great source of pleasure was that many alumni were among them, including most of the parents of the nineteen alumni sons now in school, many brothers of the forty-two younger brothers, and also many recent alumni now attending nearby colleges.

All in all, it was a very enjoyable occasion.

Alumni In Education

Your Editor sat down, one fine day last winter, to study four fat notebooks that Web Dann had filled with answers to the recent questionnaire on alumni careers. In mind was a second article in the series on alumni in the professions, and I began listing those in medicine, in law, and in education, — and the greatest of these by far proved to be education.

Of 609 alumni who responded to the questionnaire, fifty-one admitted to being school teachers. As a one-time math teacher, I'm tempted to extrapolate those figures and say that among our 2,124 listed alumni, we probably have approximately 175 school teachers.

Sad, isn't it, to realize there are 175 alumni who will never be millionaires and presumably will never be able to give us new buildings, new fields, new endowment. On the other hand, it is a pretty nice feeling to know that many of our students have found something at Governor Dummer, at college, or elsewhere to make teaching look like an attractive career.

Several months have now elapsed since the alumni filled out their questionnaires and no doubt some have since moved, but we hope they haven't left the profession. Anyway, as of September 1961, there were fifty-one alumni actively engaged in education as a career.

They were scattered from Maine to California, from elementary school to university, from philosophy to agriculture. If you wish your son taught by a fellow alumnus, there is almost literally no subject, no section of the country unavailable. Does he need a sound course in otolaryngology? Then send him to Mansfield Smith '49 at the University of Michigan. Does he yearn for faraway places? Maybe he could assist Ned Stone '57 to teach physics and Math at the Achimota School, Ghana, Africa.

The great majority of our educators, however, are to be found in less recondite fields at less romantic addresses. Among the distinguished college teachers (space is lacking to list them all) one thinks of Cushing Strout '41 at California Institute of Technology, Mal Goldstein '43 and Bill Johnson '32 at Stanford, Marshall Clinard '28 at Wisconsin, Dick Palais '48 at Brandeis, Carl Jonas '32 at Omaha, Tom Davidson '49 at Connecticut, John Wells '36 at Tufts, and Ollie Andrews '35 at St. Lawrence.

The activities of Phil Sawyer '43 are recounted elsewhere in these pages. Sharing the task of training more doctors with him and Mansfield Smith are Herbert Levine '46 at Tufts, William Macmillan '42 at the University of Vermont, and David Solomon '40 at the University of California, all physicians and all, I'm sure, good ones as well as teachers.

In college athletics we have Nels Corey '35, head coach of football at Bowdoin and Bobby Pickett '42, chief mentor of Harvard's grapplers.

We also have some surprises. Who would ever think of looking for Dick Hinners '45 as Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Loyola University, or Art Giovannangeli '32 as head of the Science Department at Keene (N. H.) State Teachers College or Ed Stockwell '51 as Assistant Professor of Rural Sociology at the University of Connecticut.

But to get back to that son of yours. If he is having trouble getting into college, here's a hot tip. Try Hamilton or St. Lawrence. Haskell Rhett '54 is in the admissions office at Hamilton, Dave Powers '52 at St. Lawrence.

In the preparatory school field we think first naturally of the alumni now on our own faculty. Ash Eames is back after a year's leave of absence studying at B.U. Web Dann you've all heard from. Doug Miller heads our science department; Howard, alias Buster, Navins is now happily installed in his new home beyond Ambrose, has retired from baseball, but not, fortunately, from Latin or from soccer. Bob Linberg '57 joined us in September, 1961, to teach English and French.

Among our other prep school teachers we have at least two headmasters, namely Edward McDowell, Jr. '40 at Hamden Hall Country Day in Connecticut and William Mulliken '35 at Friends Academy, North Dartmouth, Mass. Freddy Zins '36 is Assistant Headmaster at the Winchendon School, Mass.; Freddie McVeigh '31 is Director of Admissions at Mount Hermon.

Because he is nearby we see more of Dick Marr '53 at Milton, but James Waugh '44 at Lawrenceville, Charles (Pete) Houston '48 at Germantown Academy in Philadelphia, Carl Pescosolido '55 at Berkshire, and Travis Ingham '24 at Admiral Farragut Academy in St. Petersburg are also notable members of the profession.

More recent recruits include James Dean '56 at Indian Mountain School, Lakeville, Conn., Jim Lewis '52, Assistant to the Headmaster at Landon School, Bethesda, Md., Richard Pescosolido '57 at the Casady School in Oklahoma City, Elliott Williams '50 at the Peddie School in New Jersey, and Dana Getchell '49 at the Manter Hall School, which gives him time off to coach Harvard's freshman soccer team.

And we are well represented in the public schools also. Charles Arnold '49 is the vocal teacher at Hicksville (N. Y.) High School, Manson Hall '49 teaches history at the Newton High School; his brother Dan '47 is an even closer neighbor and teaches Social Studies at nearby Lynnfield. Nat Merrill '51 teaches math at Newton South High School; Howard Reith '51 is a science teacher at

Et Tu, Mrs. Thurlow

Last June marked the completion of four years in our new library in the Frost Building. Mrs. Harold Thurlow joined us the first year and to her fell the task of moving our book collection from Noyes Library, the Cobb Room, and elsewhere, assembling it, arranging it, and cataloging it in its new location in the Frost Building.

Mrs. Thurlow was also responsible for surveying the collection, filling in the gaps, and adding to it. She it was who introduced the so-successful distribution of paperbound books and made reading a popular sport at Governor Dummer.

This fall, unfortunately, Mrs. Thurlow has had to ask for a leave of absence in order to take care of her own family, a leave which we all sincerely hope will be for one year only.

To replace Mrs. Thurlow we were fortunate to secure Mrs. Evelyn MacFarland, recently retired as Director of the Merrick Library of Long Island and now living in Newburyport.

Class of 1962 Goes to College

On June 1 and 2 last we celebrated our 199th Commencement. No records are available to show how Master Moody celebrated the first commencement in the Little Red Schoolhouse; but we much doubt if the first, or any of the intervening commencements, were any more enjoyable or generated as much enthusiasm as the 199th.

The details of that commencement are perhaps by now too far in the past to be of general interest. But we do think the following statistics on the Class of 1962 compiled by the indefatigable Mr. Stone are well worth publishing.

Mr. Stone points out what appears to be a surprising trend away from technical or engineering colleges by our graduates. He reports that the same trend has been apparent for several years; but he thinks that it is more apparent than real, — that the great majority of our graduates go from Governor Dummer to liberal arts colleges, but that many of them enter engineering or technical schools after earning their bachelor degrees in liberal arts.

Not included are Kenneth A. Linberg (Robert '57) and Donald L. Rimer (Robert '60).

Kid Brothers Dominate Student Body

Not quite, but they probably could if they chose, for there are forty-two of them on campus this year. And if they teamed up with the nineteen sons of alumni they might well swing an election.

Altogether we have 216 boarders on campus this year and twenty-six day boys. The day boys come from Newbury, Newburyport, and South Byfield. The boarders come from twenty-eight states and five foreign countries. If there were a prize for the most travelled student, it would have to go to David P. Sheppard, Jr. who journeyed half-way around the world from Saigon to reach South Byfield, but other students come from Italy, Spain, Colombia, and Saudi Arabia. All are sons of Americans for one reason or another now resident abroad.

As usual a slight majority of the present student body are residents of New England, but California, Hawaii, Florida, and Texas are well represented as well as nearer neighbors. (Can't someone send us a boy from Alaska?)

John Witherspoon informs us that we have eighty-eight first-year boys among us this year and that they result from a selection process that started with 944 catalog inquiries, involved 411 interviews, and 365 final applications. Fifty-two of the new boys are freshmen, twenty-eight are sophomores, and eight are juniors.

Continuity is provided by the inclusion in the class of one Peter Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Hicks of Worcester and younger brother of

Plant Improvements

The greatest physical change on the Governor Dummer campus in the summer of 1961 was the addition of the guest wing on the Mansion House. Many of you have already seen that edifice; some of you may have already enjoyed the Wilkie hospitality therein. For the benefit of those who have not at least seen it, we publish on page 6 a recent photograph.

The greatest change in 1962 has been the construction of a sizable wing on the Cottage, the small dormitory once occupied by your Editor, then for many years by Mr. and Mrs. Murphy and family, and more recently by Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

Each floor of the two-story addition provides two spacious double rooms, two single rooms, and a generous bathroom. The basement provides a much-needed and well-lighted recreation room for the fifteen residents of the Cottage and for their sophomore neighbors in nearby Boynton House and Perkins.

Structurally, the Cottage Wing includes two interesting features. The original building and the new wing were equipped with special insulation to permit the use of electrical heat throughout the building. Not only space heat, but domestic hot water as well, is supplied by electric units; and there is no fire, no other fuel, in the building. (I can hear erstwhile residents saying, "Thank goodness, no 5:00 a. m. fireman shaking down the old coal furnace.")

The other structural feature is the use of drywall plaster throughout the new wing, — but drywall plaster backed up by half-inch plywood. The Business Manager was responsible for that feature. He was tired of being asked to mend holes in dormitory walls, — holes that no one had ever made, holes that invariably had "been there since the beginning of the year."

The master's quarters in the Cottage have also been very markedly enlarged and improved. They contain a much larger living room and above it a much larger master's bedroom, a new and spacious kitchen, 2½ baths, a large screened porch, a dining room and one child's room. Mr. Miller's study is located on the first floor in the double room across the hall, and provisions are made for including the second floor double room in the master's quarters when a larger family requires more space.

General contractors for the work on the Cottage were the Ould Towne Builders of Newbury, in other words, Brownie Taylor '50 and his partner John Packer. They did a fine job, too. We heartily recommend them.

Final (we hope) changes in Perkins

Perkins 1 was also the scene of marked activity during the summer. Our own workmen gutted the entire north end of that building and rebuilt it to provide a modern and adequate apartment for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge.

Alumni will remember all sorts of arrangements in that space. Pep and Mrs. Nash lived in part of it while boys occupied the rest. Other occupants included Jim and Mrs. Williams, Ted and Mrs. Withington. Between times it was often occupied by single masters and more boys. Then the kitchen facilities were usually torn out, only to be replaced the next year, — so often that the plumber threatened to install them with zip-pers.

We hope the present arrangement is permanent. The space has been entirely re-divided to provide a study, a living room, a bedroom, a modern bath, and a modern kitchen with an outside entrance.

Modern Sewage Plant Under Construction

Less interesting but perhaps equally important, the Academy has started to cope with the sewage disposal problem posed by the heavy clay sub-soil which prevails in this area. A completely modern plant was completed during the summer in the area between the farmhouse and the big barn. It will take care of the Cottage, the farmhouse, the maintenance shops, and the hockey-rink locker room in the big barn. It includes septic tanks, dosing chamber, filtration

Hugh Dakers Returns

Not full time, but at least in a supervisory capacity.

Mr. Dakers, our popular steward for the last few years, left us in June, 1961, to take a position with Saga, a food management firm which sent him to take charge of feeding at the Trenton State Teachers' College in New Jersey.

Housing problems and distance from Mrs. Dakers' family led Mr. Dakers to change again, and he is now at St. Francis College at Biddeford, Maine, only an hour from South Byfield. His duties there allow him considerable free time, and he is spending part of it at Governor Dummer.

Specifically, he plans the menus, negotiates with the food suppliers, and makes bi-weekly visits to South Byfield to supervise food preparation and service. We are very glad to have him with us again.

Alumni Cited At Alumni Dinner

A year ago a very successful Alumni Day brought two hundred and thirty alumni and wives back to the campus for a luncheon in Lang Gym.

A feature of the day was the award of Governor Dummer chairs to five distinguished alumni. We have not yet had an opportunity to publish the citations read at that time, and we hasten to do so forthwith. A sixth award went to Howard "Buster" Navins, but modesty (his, of course) leads us to omit that one. Besides, you all know what a guy he is.

Lee Ackerman, '39

In the years since his graduation, he has been as spectacular for his versatility as for his success. A graduate of Harvard, a twice decorated Air Force pilot who served in every major theater of World War II, he began his civilian career as a pilot for Pan-American. Then he turned to promotion and writing for the Boston Globe, and the New York Times, and finally for the Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. In Phoenix he found an ideal climate for the growth of his amazing talents. He is president of far too many banks, insurance companies, financial houses, and development corporations to enumerate. His business interests are as wide as the proverbial open spaces of his adopted state. Nevertheless, his eminence as a businessman is more than equalled by his eminence as a citizen. As a member of the Arizona Legislature, he was responsible for alleviating the difficulties of the aged and the blind. In 1960 he was the Democratic nominee for the governorship of Arizona. This devotion to the interests of his state and of his fellow citizens has prompted him to play a responsible part on many important State Commissions and to serve as President or Chairman of such diverse activities as the Heart Association, the Red Cross, the Society for Crippled Children, the Medical Education Foundation, and other organizations designed to promote health and safety and to aid children. Governor Dummer proudly salutes a graduate who has already been chosen as one of the thirty young men of the nation who achieved "sweet success" in 1960.

Augustus Page Browne, '12

Educated in the political entity known as the Parish of Byfield, his interests and activities have been cosmopolitan rather than parochial. A member of the Class of 1916 at Dartmouth, he served as a captain of Field Artillery in World War I. As a co-founder of the Sheraton Corporation of America, he has made much of the world the scene of his active career. In spite of the wide scope of his business career, however, he has been most generous with his time and effort in supporting philanthropic and historical enterprises in Boston and Concord. A member of the Board of Governors of the Boys' Clubs of Boston and of the Gore Place Society, Trustee of Plimouth Plantation, Ex-Director of the New England Council, and Ex-Vice-President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, he has borne major responsibilities in altruistic service to the public. The Academy today warmly congratulates a graduate who splendidly exemplifies the noble tradition of exalted personal accomplishment and distinguished public service.

James Bronson Gardiner, '23

In his senior year at the Academy he won the Morse Flag, the highest award of the school year. Ever since that June day he has been a singularly prized member of the graduate body. As a distinguished actuary with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, he has made his mark in the business world and has also played an important role in various professional societies. In the midst of professional success, however, his heart has been strongly bound to the atmosphere and interest of his old school. His activity in organizations such as the Sons of the American Revolution and the New England Society of New York, as well as his enthusiasm for genealogy, must stem in

Death of Allan Rogers

Allan B. Rogers '50, Past President of the Alumni Association and chairman of the Greater Lawrence section of the Bicentennial Fund, died at Massachusetts General Hospital on Monday, June 11, after a brief illness.

At the time of his death Allan was Editor of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and President of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, President of the United Press International Newspaper Editors of Massachusetts, a director of the Merrimack Cooperative Bank, and active in many community organizations.

With his passing the Academy has lost a distinguished alumnus and an active worker for the advancement of his school.

part from the atmosphere of his school years. A member of the Executive Committee of his class at Yale, he has been the executive for all Academy graduates in the New York area. Hence his devotion to his school and to his fellow graduates has won the lasting gratitude and approbation of this Academy.

Daniel F. Hanley, '35

The epitome of the scholar-athlete during his career at Governor Dummer, he went on to pursue and to achieve athletic and intellectual excellence at Bowdoin College. There he added the responsibilities of membership in the Student Council and on the Board of Proctors. As an accomplished football and hockey player, he devoted the days of his youth to inflicting bruises on his opponents; as a wise and highly skilled physician, he has devoted the years of his maturity to the art of healing. Beloved College Physician at Bowdoin, physician for the Olympic track team, and for the American team which last year traveled to Russia and Poland, nationally known expert in the care and treatment of athletic injuries, he has developed and expanded the interests and attributes for which he is remembered at Governor Dummer. His adopted state is grateful for his devoted service, as Secretary of the Maine Medical Association, in securing physicians to serve in areas deprived of essential medical care. Last February, the town of Brunswick assembled at a dinner to pay affectionate tribute to his unobtrusive but singular contributions to his town and to his fellow citizens. Today his old school proudly salutes him as a manifestation of those qualities it seeks to develop in each new generation of boys.

Philip Nicholas Sawyer, '43

In his student days at Governor Dummer he sang in the Glee Club, played on the football, wrestling, and track teams, was a member of the Cum Laude Society, and won a special prize. He engaged in many activities, and he performed exceptionally well. Now, as Assistant Professor of Surgery at the State University of New York and Markle Scholar in Medical Science, he is devoting himself to a crucial area in the hot war between medical science and disease. Skilled surgeon and teacher, he is directing research into the electro-chemical metabolism of the bloodcell in an effort to prevent the abnormal thrombosis. Here his performance has moved from the distinguished to the remarkable. Yet intense devotion to one field has not meant

We Dedicate This Issue

To Miss Gertrude B. Nelson and Miss Margaret R. Burnham. In 1949 Miss Nelson came to take charge of our school infirmary. A year later Miss Burnham joined her. In the intervening years scarcely a boy has graduated from Governor Dummer without benefit of their care.

For devoted and unselfish service to the school and its students they have had no equals. They saw us through the Asian Flu epidemic and countless lesser afflictions which often filled their living room with extra beds and sometimes overflowed to other buildings. When extra help was available, we supplied it; when it wasn't, they cheerfully carried on without time off, — sometimes without sleep, and always without complaint.

Now comes the time we have been dreading, — both requested retirement in June, and regretfully we had to agree. Miss Burnham is at her home in Portland. Miss Nelson spends most of her time at her home in Marblehead; but she has agreed to come back to the campus one day each week to provide relief for her successor.

We are fortunate in having found a successor who is not a complete stranger on the campus. Mrs. Bessie Noyes lived for many years in Rowley and often came in as an extra nurse when the infirmary threatened to overflow. Her home is now in Georgetown. In recent years she has been mostly in private practice, but she comes to us from the Cable Memorial Hospital in Ipswich.

Assisting Mrs. Noyes is Miss

Pauline H. Hanson from Augusta, Maine. Miss Hanson was an Army nurse during the war and has operated a convalescent home in Augusta.

Governor Dummer Choir

The Sunday morning chapel service at the Academy has been enriched this year by the introduction of a twelve-boy choir.

Mr. Stone has been persuaded to give up his post as organist and choir master at the Episcopal Church in Ipswich in order to assume similar duties here. The Hammond organ has been installed in the Cobb Room, and two rows of Governor Dummer chairs at the right of the altar serve as choir loft.

The anthems sung by the choir have proved to be a notable addition to the service.

Parents' Day Victory Over Groton Highlights Football Season

The high point of the 1962 football season was undoubtedly the 16-8 victory over Groton on Parents' Day, the first victory over that team since 1954 and a particularly welcome one to the hundreds of parents on hand to witness it.

Jeff Ellis' early score from the five-yard line made it appear that the game might be a one-sided one, but Groton stiffened and assumed the lead with a touchdown and a two-point conversion early in the second period. The Governors roared back and scored late in the half on a thirty-two yard aerial Ellis to Terry Golden. Ellis circled the end for a two-point conversion and a 14-8 lead at the half.

In the second half play was too even to give the Governors' supporters any false sense of security. But when Garret Leahey tackled Groton's quarterback Clark in the end zone for a two-point safety, a great sigh of relief indicated a general feeling that the game was in the bag.

Opening against St. Sebastian's on October 1 the Governors showed real promise but emerged on the short end of a 14-6 score. Coached by Mr. Robert Anderson and led by Co-Captains Bob Cate and Dave Hilgendorff, the Governors out-gained the Saints but fumbled twice deep in enemy territory and lost two scoring opportunities.

Against Browne and Nichols on October 6 the Governors began a four-game winning streak which they continued against Moses Brown on October 13 and at Milton on October 20. In the second half of the latter game the Governors displayed an offensive capacity that gladdened the hearts of all those who made the trip. Terry Golden scored early in the half after taking a lateral from Ellis, Maier sprinted 25 yards for another touchdown, and Co-Captain Hilgendorff added a final one on a pass play.

The Groton game on Parents' Day made a fourth straight win, but unfortunately the streak was broken on the following Saturday by St. Mark's at Southboro. On a rain-soaked field the Governors scored but one touchdown to St. Mark's three and emerged on the short end of a 22-6 score.

The final game, against Belmont Hill in the Byfield Bowl, was pretty much a repetition of the previous week's contest. Again there was rain and mud, — such mud as you've seldom seen. After the second or third play, one team could scarcely be told from the other, one player from his opponent. Nevertheless, there was some fine running and some fine passing. Governor Dummer scored twice, Belmont Hill five times. And there was little doubt that we had played host to one of the finest teams in New England and had given them a good battle.

Langenbach Scores

Coach Fenn's harriers, now in their second year of competition, have already made a name for themselves in cross-country.

At the interscholastic meet at St. Paul's School in Concord, New Hampshire, the Governors placed sixth among thirteen schools in their class, with Captain Ranny Langenbach leading the entire field by a generous margin. Over the same course on the preceding Saturday, in a dual meet with St. Paul's, Ranny had set a new course record, and at Exeter on October 24 he was followed across the finish line by Bucky Foss and Wes Williams in 2d and 3d spots.

In their earlier meets the Governors had been narrowly defeated by the Andover J.V.'s 25-34, and by Moses Brown 23-36. In their final meet and their only home appearance Captain Langenbach kept his record clean by taking first place; Bucky Foss took second, Wes Williams fifth, Steve Rolfe seventh, and Alex Brody eighth for a 23 point total and a clean-cut victory over the visiting Lawrence Academy harriers.

Coach Navins Cries Wolf

And no one, of course, believed him. But for once he was not exaggerating. When the soccer season opened on October 3 he had not a single letterman from last year's team to hearten his inexperienced squad as they faced the mighty Phillips Academy at Andover. To be sure Ted Cook, Bob Fitzpatrick, and Dave Caldwell were there, but they were benched for the season by injuries. It was no wonder that Andover scored five goals; the wonder was that the Governors held them to five and scored one of their own.

Heartened by a 3-0 victory over Noble and Greenough at Dedham, the Governors bore up bravely through the longest winless streak in memory. But they were steadily gaining experience and power. Browne & Nichols, Brooks School, and St. Paul's humbled the Big Red but gave them experience and confidence which won them a tie against Milton on Parents' Day and a 1-0 win over Belmont High in the following week.

Then Tabor and Medford High squeaked out narrow one-point wins over the impatient Governors.

But that ended it. Old Master Navins had had enough, and so had his charges. They rose in their wrath on November 3 and knocked off undefeated, league-leading St. Mark's at Southboro 2-1. Just to prove that victory was no fluke, they ended their season by tying Belmont Hill 1-1.

Late in the season Mark Petri was elected captain of the team. By that time the usual starting line included Don Stone in the goal; Bob Mann and Bob McGilvray fullbacks; Captain Petri, Harwood Bailey, and Bill Sloane, halfbacks; and Roy Clark, Rusty Navins, Bob Sherman, Andy Thomas, Don Connelly, forwards. Their season record of 3-7-2 gave the Governors fourth place in the league, despite their slow start in eighth.

And Heb Evans' J.V. squad with their 4-4-1 record, including a final victory over Belmont Hill, may well contribute the added strength needed to make the Governors strong contenders for league leadership in 1963.

the Salem High School; Tommy Zins '50 teaches math at the Andover High School.

Bertis Pratt '39 is Guidance Director at the Caribou, Maine, High School. Charlie Caddoo '32 is Athletic Director at a Milton high school; Russ Simons '38 is athletic coach at the Scarborough School in New York; and Joe Hoague '37 after distinguished service at Natick and Taunton is now head coach of football at Melrose High School, only half an hour from the scene of his original triumphs at Governor Dummer.

And we must not omit Paul Getchell '54. When he isn't whipping the New Hampshire trout streams, Paul is now using the great voice which once dominated the Governor Dummer Glee Club to dominate the fifth grade at a Lowell grammar school.

How about our other alumni in education? Won't you please drop us a line with a bit of news about yourselves?

bed, chlorination plant, and produces a sterile, odorless liquid effluent which can be discharged to the Parker River without pollution.

Under construction presently is a much larger plant which will take care of the main campus. Located in the area between the Peirce Hall tennis courts and Middle Road, it removes all sewage and all pollution from the area between Phillips Building and the Turnpike. Because space for an adequate filtration bed is not available in the area, this plant is what is known as an aerobic digestion system. It, too, produces a final effluent completely sterile and odorless.

This plant will be the third item to be completed in the Program of Advance. Preceding it were the Frost Rink and the Mansion House addition.

the loss of versatility. He is a member of many learned societies, chairman of his local Committee on Public Health, Elder of the Presbyterian Church, hunter, fisherman, gardener, and tennis player. This imposing array of activities is an indication of the abounding energy dedicated to overcoming one more enemy of humanity. Governor Dummer salutes a loyal son, a distinguished scientist, a conspicuous example of the well-rounded man.

SEE YOU THERE

At Alumni Day, that is, of course. December 8 on the old school grounds.

Registration	11:00 a. m.
Luncheon in Lang Gym	12:00 noon
Basketball game	2:30 p. m.
Hockey game	4:00 p. m.
Tea at Mansion House	4:00 — 5:30

Many brave athletes have already signed on the dotted line. Advanced registration of spectators is most encouraging, but good seats are still available. And, of course, there'll always be room at luncheon for you and yours.
